UVA Health System Dietetic Internship

The University of Virginia Health System Dietetic Internship Program is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education (CADE) of the American Dietetic Association (ADA) and is administered by the Department of Nutrition Services.

The internship program, which has an emphasis in nutrition therapy, provides dietetic interns with over 1500 hours of supervised practice experience and training in clinical, administrative, and community dietetics. Clinical and administrative on-the-job training is provided at the University of Virginia Health System and at other affiliated locations. The internship provides the individual intern with the resources necessary for education and training to qualify the intern for responsibilities as an "entry level" generalist dietitian but with additional specialization in medi-

The UVA Dietetic Internship Program accepts 10 students per year beginning in early September. The program, which is 43 weeks in length, runs until the end of June.

Program Faculty

Ana Abad-Jorge, MS, RD, CNSD has been the internship director for 11 years. Associate Director, Kelli Hughes, RD has been with the program for three years and is a former intern. Additional program faculty for the supervised practice experience in the clinical area are registered dietitians, 65% of whom have Masters degrees.

Our clinical staff have advanced training and experience in a variety of specialty areas including pediatrics, diabetes, transplant nutrition, renal nutrition and nutrition support. A number of staff members are Certified Nutrition Support Dietitians (CNSD) and Certified Diabetes Educators (CDE). Our 30+ staff members have years of experience not only in their areas of specialization but also in the education of dietetic practitioners.
